

Paradis Beachcomber: A breath of fresh air on Le Morne peninsula, Mauritius

After several months of renovation, Paradis Beachcomber Golf Resort & Spa radiates with renewed splendour. As the new season unfolds, this €12 million transformation is a confirmation of the resort's status as a favourite with families. The hotel opens its doors on 15 October 2023.

Renovation of the core of the hotel's operations

An important part of the renovation is the upgrading of Paradis Beachcomber's restaurants to keep up with the times while providing a friendly atmosphere and a wealth of dining experiences. Three new venues are available. Blue Marlin takes a new turn in keeping with its refined spirit, boldly revisiting the classics of world cuisine.

From 15 November, with its dolce vita atmosphere and typical décor, Zest will be immersing guests in a purely Mediterranean atmosphere. Finally, with an ocean-facing bar and a private lounge, Zest Bar & Lounge offers an intimate atmosphere for couples to enjoy a drink. A panoramic view of the setting sun also makes it the perfect place for those who appreciate all the good things in life.

Eight of the hotel's Suites and 120 Rooms have embraced a new signature through a playful combination of volumes, with the same levels of comfort and flexibility to suit the expectations of all families.

An opportunity for the hotel to define its own idea of tropical elegance: a lifestyle that is geared towards the outside, while surrendering to the generous comfort of soft interiors.

Last but not least, the hotel's golf course has been upgraded in an innovative and sustainable way: 800 sprinklers are now scattered around the course to enable individual watering control while using water that has been treated and recycled to reduce wastage on the peninsula.

This project is part of a large-scale effort by the Beachcomber Group to better preserve water, a vital resource that is becoming increasingly scarce. Professional and amateur golfers will be able to practise their game from 21 October.

Paradis Beachcomber reopening with a focus on sustainability

Beachcomber has a long-standing involvement in establishing more environmentally and community-friendly practices, and the Group's convictions drive its development. The hard work has paid off this year with Paradis Beachcomber, Dinarobin Beachcomber and the Head Office - Beachcomber House, achieving the prestigious EarthCheck Gold Certification.

Recognised worldwide, this environmental and social benchmarking programme for hotels uses almost 260 criteria to assess their approach to the environment, community and cultural inclusion through annual independent audits. Beachcomber is the first hotel group in Mauritius to achieve EarthCheck Gold status.
